How Norway Citizens Can Find Freedom from Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—Any curable disease of the kidneys, Use a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been tested by thousands.

Grateful people testify: Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

L. E. Monk, Pleasant street, South Paris, Me., says: "About ten years ago suffered every day from a lame back. The kidney secretions were unnatural and I knew that my kidneys needed attention. Someone told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. They did me so much good that I continued taking them and two or three boxes made me well. Another member of my family joins me in recommending this remedy. We have also advised other people to take them and will continue to do so."

Up and Down.

They took a little gravel. And they took a little gravel. With various ingredients Imported from afar; They made it and rolled it And when they went away They said they had a pavement This would last for a day.

But they came with picks and spades And they took it up once more; And then they put it back again To play a water main.

They took it up once more; And then they put it back again To run the telephone.

They took it up for wires To feed the electric light. And then they put it back again. Which was no more than right.

Oh, the pavement's full of furrows—There are patches everywhere; But it's seldom that you dare; 'Twould be a handsome pavement—ere to town.

If 'twere not always coming up, Or always going down.

Bed Time Stories.

Once upon a time when the days were twice as long as they are now and a student was almost an age, there lived two children, two happy children, with naught but sunshine in their hearts and lives.

It was a wonderful country where the children lived or else they were wonderful for they saw strange things and people and fairies that grown folks did not see at all. There was Tom Brown, very well known, whose house sat in the middle of the field and was visited every day. Tom was a good, honest fellow and was always at home when the children knocked at his door or climbed upon his roof.

Tom's house was built of stone and was older than any wooden house you ever saw. No one knew when or how it was placed in the middle of the field, for it was there ages before there was any field, when all around it was a dark forest of trees. It had stood thousands and thousands of years when Columbus discovered America, and was nearly half buried in fallen leaves and covered with gray moss then.

My! but you would have supposed after lasting all that time it would have staid on another age.

But poor old Tom was startled one bright morning in returning in autumn by a heavy knocking on his roof—much too heavy for friendly callers. It kept on pounding and pounding till at last Tom rushed out to see what the commotion was all about, just in time to see two men, one of them a short, stout, and short running away as if they expected something was coming after them, and then there was a tremendous, deafening, roaring, tearing explosion and Tom's house was blown into—I do not know how many pieces. Neither do I know whatever became of Tom Brown.

There was another place which was not visited very often for no one lived there but a very wicked old witch. I do not know in what way she was wicked, for she stayed way down in a dark rocky nook house, a nook house which was lighted by one tallow candle and she never came out among people or ever bothered anyone or spoke to anyone, but to the children she was the wicked old witch.

Poor old witch! We have learned since that some wicked witches live in very fine houses and talk very much to people.

Other places visited often had the magical power of being different things at different times. I will tell you about them sometime but now want to tell you about the "Cubby Hole." Oh, the delight it was to crawl way, way through the long, rustling tunnel into the "Cubby Hole."

It was made by these two children in the corner of the hay mow and ran way along one side of the barn, turned the corner and then there was a spacious apartment large enough to sit up in or to lie down in.

Into this "cubby of inners," "holly of holies" the warm sun would come like a great pleasant friend through the cracks and funny knot-holes. How sweet the whole mow of hay smelled! How soft and warm and safe was that cozy nest! Ah, never was there a safer place and never will there be in the whole wide world!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is a cure for disease and that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only medicine now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in her work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

How to Be More Beautiful.

By Dr. True

The love of good looks is a very natural feeling. We are all just human enough to wish to look well and make a good appearance.

Have met many people, some of them ladies, who were mortified because their faces, otherwise attractive and often even beautiful, were marred by a dry and scaly skin, flabby and wrinkled, or by unsightly pimples and blotches.

It has been my good fortune to point these people to a safe and very simple remedy for their affliction; and because there are many others who suffer in the same way, I am giving my remedy here. Every one should understand, however, first, that these troublesome things have a very simple cause and come only because nature is failing to eliminate poisons from the system in a natural way. If these people will take Dr. True's Elixir they will aid stomach and bowels to carry off waste matter that now is clogging the pores of the skin and marred physical beauty.

I counsel all who wish to possess good looks to follow this advice and I urge them further to use, every night, Parker's 2-3-2 Cold Cream. Persist in this and nature thus aided will give you back the full measure of beauty that is yours by right.

After any Sickness

nothing so rapidly restores health and vigor as SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is the essence of natural body-nourishment, so medically perfect that nature immediately appropriates and distributes it to every organ, every tissue—feeding, nourishing and restoring them to normal activity.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is not a patent medicine, but is nature's body-nourishment with curative, upbuilding properties and without a drop of drug or alcohol. It contains superior cod liver oil, the hypophosphites of lime and soda with glycerine, and is so delicately emulsified that it enters the system without digestive effort—builds, tones and sustains.

After croup, whooping cough, measles and other child ailments it is nature's ally in restoring health. After grippe or pneumonia it imparts strength and health, and for colds, coughs, sore, tight chests and throat troubles SCOTT'S EMULSION gives the greatest relief known.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

No. XXII.

By referring to my diary I find that August 11, 1911, I spent at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Andrews. It was my boyhood days this was the home of the Smith family. I do not remember the old folks, but I do remember the young folks. When I visited in 1888 I met Mr. and Mrs. Otis. Moses Kimball living there, of whom I have already written. Otis was one of my boyhood friends and I was glad to find him looking so well and prosperous, and with such a fine home and genial life there. Their little farm and home is one of many beauty spots to be found in Lovell. It is located on the top of a high hill which is a part of Sabatons mountain, and a trail leads from the highway to the top of the mountain not very far away.

Retracing my steps a half mile or so to the branch road running out North-east Lovell way, I wandered on past the old Henry Gerry place now owned, I believe, by the Pottle family, and on through the woods to the home of George Eastman. Mr. Eastman, nee Lizzie Pottle, was one of my school companions and George was, I think, in his younger days one of my Sunday school companions.

In the olden days some 45 to 55 years ago when Jacob Andrews and his good wife Martha lived there, it was one of the treats of my life to visit them; and what gay and happy times I had visiting the old farm and the three boys, Frank, Charles and Isaac, and the little girl Sarah, or Sis as we always called her. The farm is distant about two miles from the Center; and with the exception of my old abandoned farm, which has become a valuable timber lot, the road and surroundings are almost identical to what they were in my younger days. Field, pasture and woodland, the winding road with its ups and downs, the old stone walls, the orchards loaded down with their golden fruit, and the neat and tidy farm homes are there. Could the walls of these old houses speak what a story they could tell of mingled joy and pleasure, death and sorrow. We are told that men and women are but children of a larger growth; and I found Mr. and Mrs. Eastman, and Lizzie Pottle, the same genial, kind and jolly hosts that I have ever found them. They are leaders in the social circle, and have ever been strong upbuilders in the little Christian church of which they have been long time honored members.

My next visit was with the other old time friend, Freeman Andrews, and his wife, nee Brackett, and daughter Isabelle. Freeman, as he is called by almost every one, is one of the most prosperous and progressive farmers in Lovell. In addition to the old homestead, he now owns two adjoining farms so that he now owns a 300-acre farm upon which there is much valuable timber. Mr. Andrews' tidy and well tilled farm and his well filled barns betokened prosperity on every hand. He takes especial pride in his well fed swine and in his thoroughbred herd of white faced cattle.

Out in the pasture he had three pairs of matched steers so evenly matched that only an expert could tell them apart. Mr. Andrews was going on a big buying expedition over to Heald's Pond and took me along for a ride. The road took us around by Cushman's Pond. We met George Whitehouse on the way, made a short call on the venerable Russ Kimball and wife, both well past their 80th year. This was the first trip I had ever made to this section and I was surprised to see the many pretty and thrifty looking farm homes in this section of Lovell.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews have but one child, a daughter, who is the pride and joy of their home. She is a student at the Fryeburg Academy, and is also when at home the Northeast Lovell correspondent of the Advertiser, and when the latter arrives on its welcome weekly visit, I always search first for Lovell and West Fryeburg items.

Old-time friends that I need to know in this locality were Moses McKeen, William and Porter Kennerson, Skilkins, Foster and John Whitehouse. While writing this last week my Advertiser came to hand and I read with sadness that "Freeman Andrews had a bad shock on Friday morning, Sept 6th, and is in a critical condition." I will now go back to the Center and start on my last and final roundup, which includes Hamlin's Hill and Old Slab City, now known by the new and modern name of Heald's Pond. The Christian church standing on the brow of the old brick yard hill erected about 1866 stands as an enduring monument to the zeal and energy of the Lovell Center people. I attended the annual church sale there and met quite a few old-time friends.

About ten years ago the church was raised and a basement vestry and kitchen added, which is a great convenience to the church. I attended the various social functions of the church.

Going on up the hill I pass the small house where Rev. John Pottle lived for a few years with his estimable wife and children, while he labored with untiring zeal for the spiritual upbuilding of the little flock, who held their meetings from house to house. It was the seed which he sowed which took root and later resulted in the building of this splendid church of which he was afterwards the honored pastor for some 14 years.

A little farther on is the old home of John G. Hamlin, now greatly improved and owned by strangers. Then the finely improved farm home of Aubrey Kimball, owned 40 and more years ago by Martin Pickett, then for quite a long time by Dr. Hardy, then from about 1890 to 1898 or '97 by Elder Goodwin, pastor of the Christian church. Mr. Goodwin had three sons, William, Albert and James, who were schoolmates of mine the latter years of my school life. We next came to what used to be the old red-house owned for several years by Henry Lord and family, and since about 1853 by Deacon Cyrus Andrews and his family until after his and his wife's death. It has lately been sold and is now owned by a new family.

The next and last house on the hill is the old Hamlin homestead, where Deborah Hamlin lived and raised up his stalwart and noble family of 10 bright boys and girls. Dea. Charles Hamlin succeeded his father on the farm. In addition to the farm he had a shop down close to the road where he plied his trade as a shoemaker, and where I often went to have my boots and shoes repaired. This place has long been in the hands of strangers.

Going on down the hill I crossed the Millbrook bridge and on to the little flat beyond where George Farrington used to live. There are no buildings there now of any kind. Mr. Farrington was a famous fisherman. He had a little house three or four feet square built down on the pond and out 20 or 30 rods from the mouth of the mill brook, where he could sit and fish in the coldest weather. Smelts were the principal fish caught but occasionally a pickerel, cusk or chub would reward the fisherman for his patient waiting.

In the spring when the ice broke up in the stream and the smelts began to run, we had great fun dipping them from along the shores of the stream with a long handled dip net. Sometimes 15 or 20 men and boys would gather there in the evening. We would go out in the woods and the great forests of brush and build a big bonfire back a few rods from the bank. Then we would go down and dip smelts for a while in the dark, then gather around our fire, tell stories, play leap frog and have a jolly time, then go back to our fishing. About ten in the evening the fish stopped running and our fishing party broke up and we returned to our various homes, and we almost always had a fine lot of fish to take with us.

The smelting season only lasted for a week or ten days and then the suckers began to run, and again large crowds gathered at the same place and with flaming torches and fish spears waded the stream of ice cold water often in places hip deep and up as far as the bridge and often with such good luck that we speared all the fish that we could pack home, and late at night wet, tired and sleepy we returned to our homes where we crawled into our warm and cozy beds.

These were happy care-free days and I remember them as amongst the most pleasant of my life. Mr. Farrington had two daughters, Mary Jane and Olive. They must have moved away before 1890. Not long after Olive died with that dread scourge diphtheria and was brought back and buried in the Center cemetery. A Mr. Coburn and David Coffin were later occupants of the place.

Passing on up the road I came to the place where the road forks, one branch leading to Heald's pond, the other to North Lovell. The last time that I traveled the North Lovell road that I remember was more than 50 years ago at the funeral of Cal McKeen, who had met a violent death at the hands of John Coffin. The funeral was held in the big Coffin barn if I remember right. The excitement was great and there was a great crowd present, and the big barn floor was crowded.

I remember the pale ghastly face of the dead man, who had died from the effects of a pistol shot under the ear, and I think it was 17 blows from a flatiron on the face and head. I did not know McKeen, but was well acquainted with Coffin for he had worked at our house.

I remember one morning when I was a half grown boy that one McAllister held me while John greased my upper lip with a feather dipped in chicken oil which my mother used to grease her spinning wheel with. They said they did it to make my mustache grow.

John Coffin was a pleasant quiet young man, as I remember him, but a bottle of rum and the smiles and wiles of a pretty woman made him take that which he could not give again, a human life.

Nature Provides.

I note people at this time of the year raking leaves off their lawns and burning them in bunches. This makes the lawns look nice and green now; but I wonder how it will effect them next year. As I look at it old mother nature is much wiser than some of our most influential citizens and she knows a heap more about what ought to be done. As I understand it this falling of the leaves is nature's way of providing for future fertility of the soil. In fact, I understand that the coal we would like to burn now if we could get any is the leaves of a few hundred million years old packed down, warmed through and made into a solid substance. Vegetable matter, humus, and a lot of other scientific names all mean decayed leaves and they form a most valuable form of land dressing and fertilizer. I note that on some of these same lawns that are now being so carefully cleaned of leaves later on heavy loads of stable manure will be heaped and placed in order to furnish the same kind of plant food that nature would furnish free if the leaves could only be left where they are.

But while I object to raking leaves off the lawns, I will not object to be compelled to sweep them off their sidewalks especially when it is wet. There is no more dangerous combination than wet leaves on a slippery cement sidewalk and heavy falls are in order on all such occasions. Thus it will be seen that there is a place for dead leaves and a place where they should not be tolerated. One is inside the fence and the other is outside.

Charles E. Gammon shows us a twig from a Baldwin apple tree, 14 inches long. The largest end is 1/4 of an inch thick. Growing on this twig are 12 large No. 1 apples of nearly the same size, averaging three inches or more in diameter, and weighing four pounds.
The daughters of the American Revolution meet with Mrs. Georgia M. Andrews, Wednesday evening, Nov. 6th.
The roll call will be quotations from "The Countess of Miles Standish." A paper on "The Pilgrims and the Puritans" will be given by Mrs. Edith S. Bartlett.
Col. Albert J. Stearns of Norway will again occupy the seat in the Senate chamber at the State House in Augusta designated for Oxford county. He will be the second man ever returned to the Senate from this county for a second term. Prior to the election to the senate of Hon. H. H. Hastings of Bethel it had been the custom in Oxford to give a man a single term in the senate. Mr.
Hastings was given two and now the voters have sent Col. Stearns back for his second term. This senator was born in Lovell, Me. Oct. 8, 1875, and has lived in Norway since 1895. He was a member of the house of representatives in the seventy-third and seventy-fourth legislatures and in the senate. He served as Judge Advocate General on the staff of Governor Fernald.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had sore-ness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had such a pain as I do at my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Norway Imprints.

Recently at a Boston sale I acquired a copy of an interesting Norway imprint entitled, "An Apology for Believing in Universal Reconciliation; or, An Appeal from the Inferior Court of Bigotry, Superstition, Ignorance and Unbelief, to the Supreme Court of Proper Candor, Sound Reason, Good Understanding and True Faith. Also, a Key to the Book of Revelation with short Notes on the Same, by Samuel Hutchison." This was printed in Norway for Asa Barton in 1827. It is a 12mo volume divided into three sections, pagged continuously. The second section is entitled, "A Key to the Book of Revelation, With short Notes on the Same," and the third is, "A Supplement to the foregoing Apology." Does anyone in Norway remember Samuel Hutchison? His work is an appeal for Universalism.

Asa Barton was the father of the late Mrs. Elliot Smith and grandfather of Clarence Smith of Norway. In addition to his printing business Mr. Barton carried on a book store. I wonder if there are any old books extant in Norway from his press, or whether any one in Norway has a copy of the above title. The late George W. Millet printed several books, the most notable being the Noyes History, issued in 1832, of which I have six or seven copies all in fine condition. The book was bound by the late Robert Noyes and General George L. Beal, who was then associated with him in the book bindery, and is a fine piece of work both from a printing and binding standpoint. Another from George W. Millet's press is "The Life of Henry Morgan," a fantastical work written by a member of the Ripley family in Paris. I would be glad to know of the existence of any other Norway imprints.

FORTUNES IN FACES.
There's often much truth in the saying "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them, 25 cents at The Noyes Drug Store. Adv. 40-43.

The reason why the potato does not produce potato balls as freely as it used to do, is not, as some people believe, due to the use of arsenical sprays, but rather to the sterility in most of our cultivated varieties. There are a number of varieties which almost invariably bear seed balls every year, but the great majority rarely if ever do. It is not true that the varieties of 25 or 50 years ago all produced seed balls, only some of the strongest growers did.

OXFORD.

William Schofield of Auburn has been the guest of George H. Jones.

Mrs. Grace Smith of Dixfield has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Albert Willis.

Mrs. Samuel Hemphill of this place, who has been for treatment in a Lewiston hospital, died suddenly Sunday.

The Oxford Democrat reports that there has been great activity at Snow's Falls. More than $4000 has been spent in the new bridge, the blasting of the mountain ledge, the new embankment wall, the raising of the grade of the road to comply with the requirements of the State highway commission, to make a creditable State highway. Then the proprietors of the mill water power has repaired or rebuilt the dam. All this has altered and much improved the appearance of the place, and will tend to the bringing of a good and permanent manufacturing business. Active preparations are being made to start the custom cider vinegar mill in about a week. The chances are that this will be the last season of the cider mill, so the farmers hereabouts will do well to bring in all their cider apples to the end that they may have a good stock of vinegar on hand after this custom mill is discontinued.

In 1860 I was practicing in Millersville, Pennsylvania, a farming community. A citizen of that locality called office one day in a very excited condition. So much so he had to be held in his arms. I found on questioning him that he had been afflicted for about 10 years with a peculiar disease. He had consulted various physicians, but none had been able to cure him. He pronounced his disease the Bright's disease of the kidneys, which was gradually failing in strength, and he was losing a great deal of weight. I prescribed a very pitiable specimen of a once strong man. I had been treating a new medicine, this new medicine was highly recommended me and was he had come to me. He told me that the doctor practically given up his case, and he felt free to consult another physician. I hesitated, the case, as I felt sure I could do anything more than the other physicians had done. I told him I insisted upon my prescribing a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College.

Serious Kidney Disease Treated By an Old-Fashioned Doctor

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

In 1860 I was practicing medicine in Millersville, Pennsylvania, a thriving farming community. A prominent citizen of that locality called at my office one day in a very feeble condition. So much so he had to be assisted in alighting from his wagon. I found on questioning him that he had been afflicted for about two years. He had consulted various doctors, among them a specialist from Philadelphia. They pronounced his disease to be Bright's disease of the kidneys. He was gradually falling in strength, losing flesh rapidly, and altogether presented a very pitiable spectacle, the remnant of a once strong and happy man.

I had been treating a neighbor of his successfully. This neighbor had highly recommended me and thus it was he had come to me.

He told me that the doctors had practically given up his case as hopeless and he felt free to consult any other physician. I hesitated to take the case, as I felt sure I could not do anything more than the other physicians had done. I told him so, yet he insisted upon my prescribing. I was a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, and as one of the consulting physicians had been a professor in that college it seemed to me quite unlikely that I would be able to do any more than had been done, but I prescribed what seemed to be the best thing under the circumstances.

He went away and in a week he returned saying he was no better, that he was still losing ground. He judged that he had taken the same medicine before. No doubt he had. But he wished me to prescribe again. I did so.

"This went on for about two months, the patient failing all the time, and I was becoming thoroughly discouraged with the case."

One day the patient said to me, "Doctor, why don't you give me the medicine you gave my neighbor? We all thought he would die, but your medicine cured him. This was why I came to you. Why not give me the same medicine you gave him?"

"But," I said, "your neighbor did not have kidney disease. It was a bowel complaint that I prescribed for in his case. I remember I gave him the Neutralizing Mixture that I make a great deal of use of in bowel diseases."

"Well, I want some of the same medicine you gave him. It worked wonders with him and I believe it will with me."

"But," I said, "this is not a medicine for kidney disease."

"Well, since you seem to be like the rest of the doctors, you cannot help me, why not try the medicine that helped my neighbor?"

After some hesitation I concluded to give him a bottle of it. In ten days he returned. He at once began to bemoan in no complimentary words, saying:

"You knew very well this medicine would help me. You held it back merely to get more fees for treating me. From the first the medicine has helped me and I have made rapid improvement. If I could have had this medicine a year ago I should have saved a great deal of expense and loss of time."

I replied that I was glad the medicine had helped him. I was somewhat confused by his brusque manner and rough speech. I told him another bottle of medicine. Did not see him again for about three weeks. Once more he called at my office for another bottle of medicine, which was his last call. A month or so afterwards a neighbor of his called and got a bottle of the same medicine, saying that his patient was practically a well man, attending to his duties about his large farm.

I had given him the Neutralizing Mixture which was a remedy that I had used before only for bowel diseases. The same remedy that has since been sold under the name of Peruna. I could not quite understand how it was that Peruna should operate so beneficially in such seemingly different diseases. I had not yet grasped the correct philosophy of disease. I did not then clearly comprehend that catarrh may affect the kidneys as well as the bowels. Nothing of that sort was taught in the books in those days. It took me years before I clearly comprehended that catarrh was a disease liable to attack any organ of the body.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membranes. The mucous membranes line every organ, duct and cavity in the body. Thus it is catarrh may settle anywhere where there is a mucous membrane.

Peruna is my remedy for all these cases. I insist upon it, however, that Peruna is not a cure-all. I use it for just one disease, catarrh. But as catarrh is liable to affect so many different places, disturb so many different functions, derange so many different organs, it does seem to many people as if I regarded Peruna as a cure-all.

The above narrative is simply one of the many cases in my early practice that brought me to comprehend the wonderful efficacy of Peruna in such a variety of diseases. The kidneys may be affected by other diseases than catarrh, but the average case of kidney disease is catarrh of the kidneys. All cases of Bright's disease begin with catarrh of the kidneys. This being true, and it also being true that Peruna is a catarrh remedy, it follows that a great many cases of kidney disease would be benefited by Peruna.

New Electric Railway.

The Fryeburg, Stow & Lovell street railway, Maine's only horse railroad, has been sold to interests represented by James J. O'Brien of Boston, who proposes to extend it to Norway and thence to Fryeburg and Rumford and from Fryeburg to Cornish.

This system will give Sweden, Waterford, Woodstock (Bryant Pond) and Bethel, to the north of Fryeburg, an important outlet for timber and farm products, while the extension to the southward, through Brownfield and Hiram to Cornish, opens up another rich territory. The motive power will probably be electricity.

This railroad has had an interesting history. It was given a charter March 3, 1837, with Asa A. Pike as its president. Upon his death the following year Freeman Hatch of Cornish was elected president and Seth W. Pike of Fryeburg, superintendent and manager. The road was finally built from Hiram to Central railroad station to the Chautauque grove three miles and the horse cars which are still the delight of summer visitors, were put on.

From time to time efforts have been made to extend the road and increase its facilities in accordance with the ambitious plans laid down in the charter, and once or twice this seemed likely to be brought about.

The stock was then purchased by Geo. B. James of Boston for the White Mountain Paper Co. That company lived but a short time, however, and the road was then sold to Col. E. C. Farrington, for years clerk to the board of railroad commissioners at Augusta; Edward E. Hastings of Fryeburg; A. C. Kennist of Conway, George E. Macomber of Augusta and Hon. Fred J. Allen of Sanford.

Under their ownership the legislature changed the charter so that either steam or electric power may be used and extension rights through Stow, Norway, Sweden, Waterford, Norway and Bethel to Rumford, and again through Denmark, Brownfield, Hiram and Porter to Cornish, were granted.

In December, 1911, Mrs. E. C. Farrington, Mrs. M. V. Farrington and Seth W. Pike of Fryeburg became the principal owners and they have recently turned the management of the property over to James J. O'Brien of Boston.

It is now proposed to develop the property in connection with the natural resources of the country which has few connections with steam roads. In the territory are more than a hundred very valuable undeveloped water powers, rich lumber properties and splendid farms. It is among the loveliest of the White Mountains and also does a big business in the entertainment of summer guests.

The Indian Summer of Life.

Benjamin Franklin, in his wise old age, wrote an interesting, if in some respects regrettable, letter to a young friend, in which he urged the youth not to undervalue the attractions and society of women who were no longer young. Franklin did not stop with the obvious gains of time—the surer discretion, the wider knowledge, the broader judgment, the greater tact and sense of manner. He assured his friend that women well on in middle age, or even beyond, often retained, in surprising degree, the graces and charms of their sex. He declared that any such men could hold their own against belles of the day in real interest for men of good sense.

The same truth has been discovered by a multitude of men in all countries and times. Artists have found some of their most fascinating subjects among women whose hair was white. Poets have felt the power of beauty grown old happily. Brilliant social circles have revolved around the wit and wisdom and ripened charm of women old enough to be grandmothers. They have rivaled their daughters in the spell they cast about men and women alike. Younger candidates for social leadership have often had reason to marvel at the resourcefulness, which frequently marks women past the threshold of life.

In truth, the Indian summer of life is apt to bring women some of their pleasantest years. If an elderly woman has been fortunate enough to retain a fair degree of health and strength she is sure to be attractive and interesting to her friends. She hasn't kept a woman's eye and ears open all her days for nothing.

HARRISON.

The Free Baptist vestry was open to a public gathering, Wednesday evening, in the form of a free social, for the first time this fall. The vestry was prettily trimmed with autumn foliage, Japanese lanterns and festoons of paper decorations. Music and various games of interest made the evening a merry one for all. Assorted grapes, apples and the good old-fashioned corn balls were served. The large number of people present pronounced the affair a success.

Artificial Roots for False Teeth.

To complete false teeth, a dentist of Wichita, Kan., has invented an artificial root, by means of which an entire row of sound teeth can be placed in a jaw from which all the natural teeth and roots have been removed. To prove that his invention is of practical value, he recently took with him to the convention of the National Dental Association in Washington, D. C., a white-haired woman who has a number of these artificial roots in her jaw.

Bride's Part.

When a man becomes engaged or is married the first thing we think about is whether he can support a wife. Rarely do we wonder whether the bride has ability to spend the man's income wisely. Yet investigations are beginning to show that more families are poor because the wife is untrained to housekeeping and wasteful of the income than because the husband does not earn enough. It is high time that, coupled with our wonder about the bridegroom's income, we were beginning to ask of the young bride what she knows about the wise spending of that income, remarked the Ladies' Home Journal. For that is going to be the question of the future and we are headed straight for it.

LOVELL.

Marietta Horr Fox.
In Lovell, Oct. 15, occurred the death of Marietta Horr Fox, widow of the late John Fox. She had not enjoyed good health for many years yet her death came unexpectedly as she passed away while peacefully sleeping. She was seventy years of age, a life long resident of Lovell and passed away in the home of her birth.

She was a member of the Grange and of the Christian church. Her hospitality was unlimited; to rich and poor alike the doors of her home were open wide, and many friends there are who will sadly miss her welcome smile. Her life was an example of motherly thoughtfulness for her husband and sons to whom she was so dearly devoted.

Since the death of her husband two years ago, friends have had to make her last days happy, and her "boys" have been as possible more thoughtful and tender to their mother who was ever waiting for the master's call, that she might rejoin him whom she missed so much.

She loved flowers and the floral tributes were beautiful. Most in evidence were white plums, as sweet, so pure, true emblems of her life. Amid the scenes of her childhood, across the valley and up the hill we wended our way to her last resting place. There in the peace and beauty of perfect autumn day, the silence bespoke the presence of the infinite. The sun kissed her cheek and beautiful hair seeming to be a halo about her. A woman good and true has gone to receive the reward she so richly deserved.

Besides her many friends she leaves five sons, William, who cared for her in the home, Josiah and Walter of Lovell, Lewis of Bangor and Guy of Paris. One sister and two brothers, Mrs. Sarah Lord of Lovell, Stuart Horr of Waterford, Vt., and Isaac Horr of Hampton, Mass. There are thirteen grandchildren.

Supreme Judicial Court.

October Term, A. D. 1912.

The Supreme Court continued until Friday afternoon, when it adjourned after a ten days' session.

Wallace F. Purdy pleaded guilty to assault and battery on Warren D. McKen at Stoneham on the first of December 1911, and was fined $50, which was paid.

Bion W. Sanborn of Upton pleaded guilty to the larceny of a rifle, the property of C. A. Ellingwood of Grafton, and was sentenced to jail for four months.

Bail was defaulted in the cases of Ernest Merchant, Louis Robichaud, Mike Melligan and Ed. H. Peters.

The case of Alton Collins, an appeal case for intoxication, the court confirmed the judgment of the lower court, and a fine of $3.00 and costs of $1.72, which was paid.

The nuisance case of Paulo Procopio of Rumford, locally known as "Polly," Procopio runs a beer shop between Rumford Falls and Smith's Crossing, and several bottles of whiskey were found by officers Niles and Small on the fifth of September. Joe Praise claimed the whiskey as that which he was concealing there because he did not want his wife to get the whiskey. The jury was out a short time and returned a verdict of guilty. County Attorney Parker represented the state and A. E. Stearns the respondent.

The case of James Callendo, a Rumford barber, for keeping and concealing liquors intended for illegal sale was tried. The County Attorney for the state; Hutchins for the defendant. Search was made the 23d of June and several bottles of whiskey found by officers Niles and Small. The defense claimed the whiskey belonged to Pietro Carrioli, one of Callendo's boarders, and claimed it disappeared faster than he was using it, so he hid it in the ground. The jury was out for a short time and returned a verdict of guilty.

Joseph Ayotte was tried for larceny of two five dollar bills. Judge Savage appointed A. E. Stearns to defend him. It was claimed on the evening of July 8th, McCafferty and another man went in bathing in Swift river and Joe Ayotte was sitting at the top of the bank, and McCafferty came up to dress and found two five dollar bills missing and Ayotte had disappeared. Mr. Stearns argued that there were others in bathing and near the place, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Seneca. Friday morning nearly two hours was devoted to passing sentences upon those convicted at the October term of Court, and were as follows:

John Lord of Rumford, who pleaded guilty to the larceny of a harness, A. E. Stearns suggesting probation, but as Lord had been under probation once before Judge Savage sentenced him to eight months in Auburn jail.

Watson L. Randall, convicted for assault and battery, was sentenced to one year at Auburn jail.

George Magri pleaded guilty to the larceny of money and a watch at Fryeburg, was sentenced to four months at the County jail.

Carmel Magri of Rumford, who pleaded guilty to the larceny of a check and who had been in jail awaiting trial for three months, was given 30 days in jail.

The case of Mrs. Emily Brooks and John McNeil of Rumford for adultery was taken up. It was claimed by the county attorney that these people were degenerate. They had been in jail for a month and Judge Savage imposed a sentence of nine months in the Auburn jail for McNeil and had the case of Mrs. Brooks continued for sentence and she was allowed to go.

Paulo Procopio, convicted of nuisance, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and a fine of $100 and costs of $10.

Annie McDonald pleaded guilty to the larceny of a diamond ring valued at $250. She claimed that she packed her trunk to go away one Sunday afternoon but did not know that the missing article was in her trunk. She was sentenced to one year at the County jail.

Harry Rowe of West Paris, a boy of about 19 years, pleaded guilty to the larceny of goods from Mr. Smith's store at West Paris. Considering the good character with the boy has borne the mat, was continued for sentence by the judge, who said he was more impressed as time went on with the advisability of doing this in many cases.

Among the liquor cases Albert J. Pine was fined $300; Burton Bean, $100; Hugh McCafferty, $100 with $10 costs and Michael J. Leduc had a fine of $100 on the old nuisance indictment.

Henry McLain, nuisance and common seller. James Morrison, nuisance.

Facit Strawn, felonious assault. Amos T. Johnson, embezzlement. Lucian Martin, forgery.

Walter L. Abbott, larceny and breaking lock-up.

Rose Curran, nuisance.

George L. Abbott, wife desertion.

Fred A. Furish, nuisance, and keeping and depositing.

George Dolton, keeping and depositing.

Mary Gahan, nuisance, and keeping and depositing.

Frank Roy, intoxication.

Everett Fletcher, assault (Costs of $15.50 paid by respondent).

Clark Houston, nuisance.

Louis A. F. Kirschebaum, Non-support of wife, and non support of child.

John Mitchell, larceny.

The following divorces are the remaining divorces granted:

Evelyn of Norway from Chester O. Holden of Norway. Habits of intoxication.

Robert L. Wheeler of Bethel from Nell M. Wheeler of Lynn, Mass. Desertion. Custody of minor children given to mother.

Madeline King of Rumford from John King of parts unknown. Desertion. Custody of minor child given to the father.

Charles H. Thurlow of Greenwood from Roxie A. Thurlow of Greenwood. Desertion.

Lura M. Blake of Brownfield from Carlos O. Blake of Brownfield. Desertion. Custody of minor children given to mother.

Perley M. Wyman of Rumford from Rose B. Wyman of Paris. Desertion.

Charles E. Wheeler of Bethel from Mabel F. Wheeler of Bethel. Desertion.

Annie O. Eve of Paris from James C. Eve of Island Pond. Desertion. Custody of minor children given to libellant.

Lillian M. Brown of Paris from Charles H. Brown of Auburn. Desertion. Custody of minor children given to libellant.

The four liquor cases against Nathaniel Leach were continued on payment of costs, which amounted in the four cases to $125.

Ignacio Albanes, better known as "Joe Billy," convicted for the murder of his wife a year ago, was sentenced to State prison for life. Motion had been filed for a new trial, but was denied by the law court.

Final judgment was reached about 11 o'clock.

Now through the woodlands the Frost Kings go.

Gathering strength for a final display; Myriads of troops to his standards are flowing; Eager to join in the brilliant array.

Music, though pensive and mellow, is sounding; Floating o'er meadow, o'er valley and hill; Summer's fair soldiers their weapons are grinding.

And they shall sleep by the ice-fettered rill.
